Cataract surgery for tiger

CHICAGO (AP) — A 10-month-old Siberian tiger underwent cataract surgery Wednesday, just like humans — more or less.

The 169-pound animal was strapped on his back to a table, draped with gray surgical sheets, and thoroughly anesthetized — very thoroughly anesthetized.

The tiger lives at Lincoln Park Zoo, one of a few hundred of the endangered species remaining in the wild and in captivity.

After being sedated, he was taken — like his brother in January — to the University of Illinois medical center, where a team of doctors and nurses awaited him.

Surgery was delayed more than an hour because the medical team had difficulty getting the unnamed animal to sleep. They had trouble finding a vein in which to inject the anesthetic.

After that, everything went smoothly, with the tiger only occasionally twitching a paw or breathing heavily.

Dr. Edward Cotlier, professor of ophthalmology at the university, operated first on the left eye. Then Dr. Samuel J. Vainisi, a Green Bay, Wis., veterinarian, operated on the right eye.

All the while, Dr. Barbara Stein, also a veterinarian, listened to the tiger's heart through her stethoscope and felt his pulse while anesthetic dripped into a vein in the right hind leg.

Vainisi explained the operation, which could be seen on a television screen as it proceeded.

The doctors looked through magnifying lenses as they did their work, first making a tiny incision in the eye, then injecting an instrument to remove the cataract.

The actual removal took only about six minutes for each eye.

A 10-month-old Siberian tiger from Chicago's Lincoln Park Zoo underwent successful cataract surgery this week at the University of Illinois Eye and

Ear Infirmary, where a procedure similar to that used for humans was followed. (UPI)

PUPPIES DON'T SIT ON FENCES

But people sit on fences. And faithful puppies never question.

Our children, trusting the love and wisdom of their parents, respect even our indecision.

But the moral and religious growth of every child is deeply influenced by his parents' commitment of their own lives to God.

We have outlived the day when fathers and mothers sent their children to Sunday School without accepting their own rightful responsibilities and opportunities in the religious community.

Juvenile delinquency is the aftermath of fence-sitting! The Church is for the family. Religious instruction and inspiration are foundations of the home. Lives—growing or mature—gain direction only with commitment. Join the FAMILIES who worship and grow together in church.
